Innovation teaching “ingredients”

Examples of teaching formats and activities to support innovation learning outcomes:

• External collaboration with private and public organizations
• Project work in teams
• Team work / collaboration
• Analyze and define opportunities for innovation
• Work with complex real life/society challenges
• Develop and test new ideas
• Involving users and other stakeholders in qualifying solutions
• Describe potential value and impact of a solution
• Researching potential users/ customers
• Plan, carry out and reflect upon a development process
• Applying academic skills / domain-specific knowledge in development processes
• Learning from reflection on experience and praxis
• Cross disciplinary work related to societal challenges
• Developing new processes, services and products
• Communicating new ideas and solutions to stakeholders